SUCCESS!

He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has gained the trust of pure women and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem or a rescued soul: who has never lacked appreciation of the earth's beauties or failed to express it; who has always looked for the best in others and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration, whose memory a benediction.—B. A. Stanley.

Public Examination of the Didsbury School

The Didsbury High and Public School will open their public examination at 1:45, Thursday afternoon, April 17th. Guests are requested to come at 1:30, in order to prevent confusion at the assembling of classes.

Timetables and directions will be conspicuously posted in the halls. The staff ask the co-operation of the public in adhering to these, so as to prevent disorder.

The examination will consist of drills on work covered, spelling and arithmetic matches, dramatizations by Public and High School, history and mathematic reviews, French conversation, and speeches by the High School students.

The Minister of Education, the Hon. G. P. Smith, is expected during the examination and art exhibition in the afternoon, and program in the evening.

The Didsbury school and surrounding country schools will also hold an art exhibition in the basement in conjunction with the public examination. This will be worthy of patronage, as the work shown is of excellent variety and quality.

A program will be held in the evening, commencing at 8 o'clock, when a choice program will be rendered. The speaker of the evening will be the Hon. G. P. Smith. Addresses will also be given by other distinguished persons, Mr. Aylesworth, the School Inspector; Mr. Atkins, our member of the Legislature; members of the School Board, and the Mayor and Council. A number of excellent musical numbers will be rendered by scholars.

The public are asked to support the staff on their commendable undertaking of this new educational feature.

Blacksmiths Organize

On Saturday, April 5th, the blacksmiths from Airdrie, Crossfield, Carstairs, Bowden, Red Deer and Didsbury met at the Rosebud Hotel, Didsbury, to form a local branch of the Alberta Blacksmiths and Woodworkers' Association.

Mr. Chessman of Crossfield was elected President, and Mr. Dave Sinclair of Didsbury was elected secretary-treasurer for the year.

At the close of the meeting it was felt strongly by those present that the blacksmiths should have a half-day holiday on Saturdays. It was put to a vote and carried unanimously that all shops between Calgary and Edmonton be closed at 12 o'clock Saturday.

Prov. Police Given Almost Free Hand

The management and duties of the Provincial Police force are to undergo a radical change, under a new Act brought down in the House on Thursday last.

The new bill repeals the present Act, and instead of the Provincial Police being controlled by a commission as at present, they are to be placed under the control of the Attorney-General, "or such other minister as may be from time to time appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council."

The Provincial Police, as before, are to perform all the duties of constables in the preservation of peace; the prevention of crime, and offences against the laws of Alberta. The largest powers given to the force, however, are those in the search for liquor kept for sale in contravention of the liquor act. One clause of the bill gives the police power to conduct a search for illicit liquor on an order issued by the Commissioner of Police. Another gives the police the right to search any transportation vehicle or person believed to have liquor, and the right to destroy the liquor. Still another section saves any such police officer from prosecution for any violation of the liquor act in pursuit of his duty.

Lone Pine News

Mr. J. A. Gateman returned home Thursday morning, after spending eight months at the coast. He is looking well and hearty. What do you say to say to some more of us taking a trip. Seattle is a pretty good place to go—plenty of "eats."

Many people in Alberta would have liked to have bought Victory Bonds, but for various reasons most of which were associated with the war, they did not have enough cash to secure those Dominion securities. They will have their chance now, for the War Savings Stamps will be within the reach of everyone, and will bring 4 1/2 per cent interest.

Walters turned to the manager. "A man can't be arrested without a warrant. I guess you understand you're making trouble for yourself by perturbing these fellows to lock me in."

"I don't know if it's quite legal or not," Foster admitted, addressing the manager, who looked irresolute. "Anyhow, you're not responsible, because we're going to take the matter out of your hands. Besides, you haven't much of a staff just now and couldn't interfere."

"In a way, that's so," the manager doubtfully agreed. "I don't want a disturbance in my hotel. I've had enough."

"Very well," said Walters, seeing he could expect no help from him. "But I'm not going to have this wooden-faced Scotchman in my room. If you don't take him away, I'll break the furniture. I can do that, although I'm not able to throw the big brute out."

Foster walked to the window, which was open. It was some distance from the ground and there was no pipe that would be a help in climbing down. Besides, Walters did not look capable of trying to escape.

"We'll take him away," he said, and beckoning Pete and the manager, went out. He locked the door on the other side and resumed. "Send up a comfortable chair, a blanket, and a packet of tobacco. If there's any trouble you can state that you acted on compulsion and we'll bear you out, but I rather think you can seize and hold a criminal when you catch him in the act. Stop here until I relieve you, Pete."

Pete nodded and the others went to the dining room. After dinner, Foster took his turn on watch, but by and by Pete reappeared, holding the page by the arms. He signed to Foster, who went down the passage to meet him.

"I thought I'd maybe better tak' a look round the back of the house and found the laddie aneath the window," he said. "He had a bit o' paper in his hand."

Foster, who told him to watch Walters' door, frowned at the lad.

"I reckon you'd sooner keep out of jail?"

"Sure," said the lad, with an effort at earnestness. "I'm not going to get in."

"Well," said Foster grimly, "you're taking steep chances just now. The police will be here tomorrow and there'll be trouble if they know you tried to help their prisoner escape. Where's the telegram he threw you down?"

"It wasn't a telegram."

"A letter's just as bad." The wisest thing you can do is to give it to me."

The lad hesitated, but let him have the crumpled envelope. "I was to give it to one of the train hands when the freight stops for water."

Foster opened the envelope, which was addressed to Telford at the mining town. The letter was written guardedly, but after studying it with knitted brows he thought he understood its purport.

"How much were you to get for sending this?" he asked.

"Mr. Walters threw me three dollars. I allow I'd have to give something to the brakeman."

"After all, I don't see why you shouldn't deliver the thing," Foster said thoughtfully. "That means you can keep the money, but as the brakeman's not allowed to carry letters, he'll probably want a dollar. Wait until I get a new envelope."

The boy went off, looking relieved, and Foster returned to his chair at Walters' door. On the whole, he thought he would hear something of the gang on the morrow, and if his suspicions were correct, looked forward to an interesting meeting. Telford had been asked for help, which he would probably try to send. The westbound freight had not passed yet, and if it came soon, should reach the mining town early in the morning. Foster lighted his pipe, wrapped the blanket round his legs, and opened a book he had brought.

Next day two policemen arrived in a light wagon and took Walters away. Lawrence was compelled to go with them, and although but little disturbance was made, Foster imagined all the occupants of the hotel knew about the matter. He had ground for regretting this, and kept a close watch on the page whose duties were light just then, which enabled him to wander about the building and see what was going on. He expected to hear something when the train from the coast arrived, but took care to be about when the express from Montreal was due. He had a suspicion that Daly had gone up the line.

The west-bound train came first, and Foster, who had sent Pete to the station, sat in the veranda, where he could see anybody who entered the hotel. The train arrived and went on again, but nobody came up the road, and after a time Pete returned. Three passengers had got down, but they looked like bush ranchers and had taken the trail to a settlement some distance off. Pete, however, did not know Daly, and Foster was not satisfied. He thought the fellow might have bought a cheap skin coat such as the bush ranchers wore. Going out, he walked through the bushes which grew close up to the back of the building. After all, Daly might try to find out something from one of the servants before coming to the front entrance.

The sun had sunk behind the range and the light was dim among the pines. The air was keen and a bitter wind that came down the valley in gusts rustled the masses of heavy needles, while the roar of the river thrashed among the stately trunks. This was in Foster's favor, because he had to make his way between fallen branches and through thick undergrowth, and wanted to do so without being heard. He was a good hiker and bushman, and did not think there was much risk of his being seen.

For a time he heard nothing suspicious and began to feel keen disappointment. He had hoped that Walters' message would bring Daly to his rescue, but it looked as if it had not done so. Then, as he stood near the breast-high among dry brush and withered fern, he heard a faint noise. Not far off, a narrow trail led through the bush to the back of the hotel. Standing quite still, he searched the wood with narrowed eyes.

It was shadowy all around him, but where the trees grew farther apart their tall straight trunks cut against the glimmer of the snow. The noise had stopped, but he could see anybody who crossed the nearest opening, and waited, tense and highly strung. Then he heard steps coming from the hotel and an indistinct object emerged from the gloom. It was a man, taking some care to move quietly. When he got nearer, Foster, who knew there was dark brush behind him, thrust his arm into the ferns and made it rustle as a gust of wind swept the wood.

The man, who wore an old skin coat, stopped and looked around, and Foster saw his face. It was Daly, and he seemed uncertain if the wind had made the noise or not. After standing motionless for a few moments, he took out his watch, and then moved on again as softly as he could.

The meaning of this was plain. Daly had learned that Walters had been taken away by the police and had concluded that Lawrence meant to fight. As it was too late to interfere, he meant to make his escape. Foster resolved to prevent this if he could, but Daly had the advantage of an open trail, while he was entangled in the brush. He crept out and pushed through the wood as fast and silently as possible, but when looking for a way round a thicket he caught his foot and fell among some rotten branches with a crash. He got up growling at the accident, for there was no use in following the other after this, although he did not feel beaten yet. Daly, no doubt, hoped to get away by the Montreal express, but would hide in the bush until the last moment.

Foster went back to the hotel for Pete, and leaving a note for Lawrence, dressed for a journey and took the road to the station. On reaching a bend, however, he plunged into the wood and made his way to the line, beside which he and Pete crept in the gloom of the trees, and only came into the open for a few yards near the agent's shack. Here they sat down behind a big water tank and Foster felt satisfied. If they had reached the station without being noticed, they would find Daly when he got on board the train, and if he had seen them, they had cut off his best chance of escape.

It was nearly dark and very cold, but Foster was glad the train was late. By and by he got up and lighted his pipe, though he was careful how he held the match. If Daly was hiding near, he did not want the fellow to see his face, but the latter would not expect anybody who might be on his track to smoke. Strolling carelessly round to the front of the shack, Foster opened the door and asked the agent: "Are you going to stop the eastbound?"

"I am," said the other. "Got a wife to hold her up."

"Ah," said Foster. "I expect we can get tickets on board, but if you don't mind, we'll wait in here. It's freezing pretty fierce."

Fur Catch Satisfactory

Promises Well for the Rest of the Season

Edmonton, Alta. — Reports reaching from the farther north indicate that the fur catch, as far as 200 miles down the Mackenzie river, is satisfactorily large and promises well for the rest of the season. Trappers seem to be having quite as good results as usual, except in localities like the Fort McMurray district, where the flu played more or less havoc with the population and left the forces of the fur catchers considerably depleted.

Mounted police reports via Dawson state, however, that the catch in the Fort McPherson region is small, with a likelihood of the fur harvest being one of the poorest known. Local traders into the north are disposed to question the accuracy of this news, it having been found before that conditions are much the same over the fur trapping country and that a good catch is nearly always to be depended upon if the trappers go after it.

Hens With a Record That Is Hard to Beat

A remarkable demonstration of the profit-making capacity of the ordinary hen and of the suitability of the climate in Alberta to egg production is reported by A. Stevenson, of Edmonton, who devotes part of his spare time to his flock of thirty White Leghorn hens.

During the month of February these thirty hens produced 564 eggs, which sold for $35.25. The total cost of food supplies for this period was $5.20, leaving a net profit of $30.05. On the coldest day of the month Mr. Stevenson received thirty eggs. He has already begun on the new season hatching program, the first brood of chickens appearing on February 11th and another brood was expected about the 4th of March. For the months of January and February these thirty hens produced 1,118 eggs.

Mr. Stevenson's records show that hens can be kept profitably here even in the coldest weather.

Aeroplanes for Czecho-Slovakia

Washington. — The United States has sold to the Czecho-Slovak military authorities aeroplanes and airplane equipment to the value of $1,000,000. The number of machines was not made public, but they were valued at $19,000. A few months ago Colonel Huban bought six planes for the use of the Czecho-Slovak troops in Siberia, and they were shipped to Vladivostok.

Rumania Will Get Credit

It is understood Canada will supply Rumania with seed grain and agricultural implements.

Soviet Clerks For Bankers

Budapest Copies Russian Method of Misrule

Vienna. — Following the practice put into effect by the Russian soviet government at Moscow, Jane presidents in Budapest have become mere figureheads, while soviet clerks administer the business. Rents are no longer paid to landlords, but to the government, which is represented by the janitors. The stores have been nationalized and the heads of factories have been replaced by those elected by the workmen. The banking business is being handicapped under the new regulations. No one is allowed to draw out more than $100, except in salaries.

In the Springtime

It's just at this time of the year that we need something taken from Nature to restore the vital forces. People get sick because they go away from Nature, and the only way to get well is to go back. Something grows out of the ground in the form of vegetation to cure almost every ill. Some of these vegetable growths are understood by man, and some are not. Animals, if you could, know what to do when they are sick better than men and women. Observers have noted that a sick horse, dog or cat will stop eating food and seek out some vegetable growth in the field or yard, which, when found and eaten, often restores appetite and health. Haven't you seen these animals do this very thing yourself? Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found herbs and roots provided by Nature to overcome constipation, and of these he selected Mayapple, leaves of Aloe, root of Jalap, and from them made little white sugar-coated pills, that he called Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. You must understand that when your intestines are stopped up, poisons and decayed matter are imprisoned in our system and these are carried by the blood through your body. Thus does your head ache, you get dizzy, you can't sleep, your skin may break out, your appetite declines, you get tired and despondent. As a matter of fact, you may get sick all over. Don't you see how useless all this suffering is? All that is often needed is a dose of castor oil, or something which is more pleasant, a few of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which he placed in all drug stores for your convenience and health. Try them by all means. They are probably the very thing you need, right now.

As was to be expected, Bolshevik propaganda has made its appearance in Didsbury. A paper called "The Soviet" is being quietly circulated here, by some local residents. The publication bears the date line Edmonton, but as for any information as to who are the editors or managers of this scurrilous sheet it does not contain any. Perhaps they have not the courage to come out in the open.

"Clean up!" should be the slogan that Didsburyites should adopt at once, for spring is with us. A glance around the town should convince us that this slogan should also be carried out. Besides the miserable and dirty appearance which backyards and laneways always present at this time of the year, your health and mine depends to a great extent on the cleanliness of our surroundings in the open, as well as in our homes. No doubt we will have lots of visitors during the next few months, and this is another good reason why you should "clean up." A dirty, unkempt appearance of the private property of the residents always give a bad impression and creates a suspicion that we are slovenly in everything else besides in our own homes. Didsbury can boast of its fine homes and pleasant surroundings, but if the accumulations of the winter season are allowed to lay around during the hot days to breed flies and all kinds of disease, then our efforts to create an impression of well-being is thus counteracted. Yes, clean up, and start now.

$700,000 to Be Spent In Road Building

The matter of good roads throughout the Province of Alberta was again brought up in the Legislature last week by Fred Davis (opp.), Gleichen, when he raised the subject by asking the Government to appoint a special commission or board of competent engineers to have charge of an extended programme for road building in Alberta this year, but no favorable overture was made by the Government on the subject. The matter came up during the discussion of the estimates for road building, for which $100,000 is to be appropriated chargeable to capital account; $300,000 for main highways, chargeable to income, and $300,000 to district highways, chargeable to income, a total of $700,000 in all.

Notes from Overseas

The preliminary Peace Treaty will be ready by Easter, and the Germans will be asked to come and sign it at the end of April or beginning of May, according to Lloyd George.

The German losses in the great war in men killed, wounded and missing were 4,330,000, out of a total of 10,178,000 who actually fought at the front.

President Wilson, who has been ill in France, is reported to be improving.

The Allies have made a request to the German-Austrian Government that the Bolsheviks sent by the Hungarian Republic to Vienna be expelled, and the request is to be acceded to.

The Peace Conference has decided on the indemnity to be paid by Germany, which is to be spread over a period of thirty years. The first is to be twenty-five billion francs. France will get ten billion, and Belgium five billion of the first payment.

The Canadian Expeditionary Force in Siberia is to be withdrawn at once and embarkation from the port of Vladivostock is to commence about the middle of this month.

For the Good Dodd's Kidney Pills

Cured Mrs. Larson's Sore Back, and Put an End to Her Son's Sleepless Nights.

Bergland, Ont., April 7. (Special). — "I am glad to have an opportunity to give fair credit to Dodd's Kidney Pills, for the good they did me, and also my family," says Mrs. John S. Larson, a well-known and highly-respected resident of this place. "We have been using them as a family remedy for sore back."

"At the time I ordered Dodd's Kidney Pills I did more for a fancy than from any belief in their curing value.

"But I was all in from an aching back. I caught a bad cold and that settled on my kidneys so bad that I could not sleep, and I could not work. When I stooped forward my back was so sore that I had to brace up my body by putting my elbows on my knees and I could hardly rise up again.

"After taking two loxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills the pain decreased some and my back is fairly good unless I overwork.

"Also one of my young sons had diseased kidneys, so that he had to get up every half hour during the night. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him and now he can sleep all night.

"I am very grateful to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills have been curing kidney ills for over twenty-five years. Ask your neighbors about them.

One of Tobacco's Victims

Tired Camels Resume Journey After Having a Smoke

Soldiers from the east are telling some curious stories of camels' love for tobacco. Dromedaries and camels are passionately addicted to the weed and can be made to do most anything under its influence.

The driver carries a triangular piece of wood which is pierced at one point like a cigar holder. This is inserted in the beast's mouth, the cigar being then lit and pressed into the hole.

The camel immediately closes its eyes and puffs away through his mouth and nostrils till the cigar is entirely consumed. It seems to thoroughly enjoy the experience. Furthermore, the nicotine appears to exercise a stimulating and refreshing effect upon the animal, so that though ready, to all appearances, to drop from fatigue before its smoke, it will plod on for many more miles after it.

Alberta's Dairy Industry Growing

Despite the adverse labor conditions ruling last year, there was a fair increase in Alberta's dairy business over that of the previous year, the total production of creamery butter being 9,100,000 pounds in 1918 compared with 8,944,000 pounds in 1917. Ten years ago the total production of dairy butter amounted to 2,550,000 pounds, so that a gain of 6,550,000 pounds has been made in the yearly output during this period. During the same time the production of cheese has also increased, from 83,570 pounds to 650,000 pounds in 1918. The average number of milk cows per farm in Alberta is now 56.

Value of Canadian Farms

The annual report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics shows the average value of farm land, including improved and non-improved farms, to be $46 an acre as compared with $44 an acre in 1917 and $41 in 1916. By provinces the value is highest in British Columbia, where it averages $149 an acre, this being exactly the same figure as in 1917. The value of farm land in Manitoba averages $32, as compared to $31 in 1917; in Saskatchewan $29, against $26, and in Alberta $28, against $27 in 1917.

Scotch Blood in the Canadian Record of Performance

The breeder of dual purpose Shorthorns is often puzzled to know where to look for a suitable sire. It is interesting, therefore, to investigate the blood lines of the noted Shorthorn sires and large producing cows whose names appear in the record of performance. The record shows twenty-five Shorthorn bulls which have two or more daughters in the Canadian record of performance. Of these bulls, nineteen are of straight Scotch breeding, and the other six are Scotch topped. It would seem, therefore, that straight Scotch and Scotch topped sires may be used successfully in dual purpose herds, which

Complications Arising
Out of the Big War

In Europe at the moment it is a grim race between peace and anarchy. At this writing it would seem that the Soviet revolutionists have a firm hold upon Hungary, and war has been declared upon the Allies. Much of this trouble is unquestionably due to the long strung-out peace negotiations, together with the fact that half Europe is hungry, and starving men are hard to reason with. At this juncture feed and finance would do more to place Continental Europe on a firm political footing than all the armies that the Allies could use, and the sooner this undertaking is on a proper working basis the better. To the charge that the Allied governments have bungled there is no answer. On the one hand they declined to suppress Bolshevism with armed forces, while on the other they failed to take proper steps whereby the situation could be relieved. They have neither aided Poland, Checho-Slovakia, Rumania or the other little new and friendly powers with much needed supplies, nor have they endeavored to crush the foes of these powers by force of arms. Everything has been waiting, standing still, marking time, for the peace conference to come to an end. Illness and want is no doubt at the root of the trouble and where it will end no man can say at the present time.

In the matter of Germany the Allies are also unquestionably on two horns of a dilemma. Crush that country as France would like to see her crushed and she would be unable to pay her war indemnities, and furthermore the chances are that Bolshevism, already to the fore, would take control. On the other hand, leave Germany as she is and she continues a menace to Continental Europe. Another question which is taking a good deal of careful adjustment is that having to do with the task of policing the German boundaries perhaps for years to come. As we all know our own troops are anxious to return home at the earliest possible moment, and indeed this is the case with all Colonial troops. The United States apparently has no intention of leaving a single man 'over there.' France, naturally enough, wants her men at home, where they can once more produce, and the same applies to England. Upon whom is to fall this police work?

With the German navy out of German hands, Great Britain could afford to "pass the buck." But will she? The British Isles are more secure today than they have been for a generation. Not so, France, however. The Germans generally do not regard themselves as a conquered people. They are still powerful, with many more millions of population than France enjoys. Their country is unscarred. All they require to bring back their former prosperity is trade with the outside world, and this, indeed, they must have if they are to pay their war indemnities. To say the least it is, all in all, a complicated tangle, and one worthy of the best efforts of the world's greatest statesmen, and indeed, we will be fortunate if it is not beyond their powers to solve.—Toronto Saturday Night.

United States Expect to Control Wheat

Regarding the control of the 1918 wheat crop, a despatch from New York on April 2, says: While there now exists "no effective control of the maximum price of wheat or wheat flour," the United States food administration grain corporation intends to do everything in its power to reduce prices to the government buying level, which must necessarily be reached when "the new enormous crop begins to move in the markets within ninety days," according to a statement issued by Julius Barnes, president of the corporation.

Referring to the fact that recent continual advances in wheat prices paid in western markets, apparently contradict statements from the industrial stabilization board at Washington, that lower food prices could be expected in the near future, Mr. Barnes said: "The reason for this seems to be that current deliveries of wheat from the farm have been insufficient for the milling needs." He added that "although the grain corporation has resold from its accumulated holdings within the last two weeks practically 40,000,000 bushels of wheat, the price has only been moderately in check. Fortunately America has a surplus of rye and barley and oats, and in order to relieve the strain of foreign buying upon our markets we have advised the neutral governments that America will be unable to furnish any more wheat or wheat flour to them; that they are free to buy these other grains in our market, but must send their ships for wheat to other sources of supply. Also, commencing next week, the grain corporation will buy, for shipment in relief to liberated countries in Europe, rye flour, corn flour and barley flour, and will thereby reduce its current purchases of wheat flour. Should all these factors fail to control the price of flour in the United States at a reasonable level, then we shall relax import restrictions and allow wheat and flour to enter the United States from Canada, Australia and Argentina."

Here's a New Habit
for Thrifty Albertans

Getting the first $1000 is said by Carnegie, Rockefeller and others fairly remote from the Poorhouse, to be the most difficult financial operation on record. Many people find the saving of the first dollar a fairly difficult process. A way has been found to make it easy, painless and practically imperceptible. A modest little thrift stamp can be purchased for 25c, and with it a book in which to paste it is given free. As odd quarters pop up, they are converted into more of these stamps and the first thing one has a book of sixteen filled. Then this is exchanged for a Four Dollar War Savings Stamp, which is pasted in another book. This $4.00 stamp draws interest at 4 1/2 per cent compounded half-yearly. Buy another thrift stamp and start all over. Soon a second $4.00 stamp is bought and in a marvellously short space of time a $10 book is full. Put this away, for on January 1st, 1924, it will be worth $50. Meanwhile, it is negotiable as gold if one urgently needs money.

Britain Will Exact Utmost Farthing

London. — In the house of commons, the government was subject to a great deal of criticism concerning the amount of indemnity which Germany is to be asked to pay.

Col. Lowther, Unionist, declared that the delegates to the peace conference in Paris needed to be reminded that a majority of the members of the house of commons solemnly had pledged themselves to exact the utmost farthing from the Germans. He said he hoped Great Britain was not trusting to the United States and bowing before President Wilson, who could philosophically bear every country's financial embarrassment but his own.

Andrew Bonar Law, government leader in the house, in the course of a long reply, announced that no decision had yet been reached as to the amount to be demanded from Germany. It was an entire mistake, he added, to assume that the views of the British government had been influenced in the desire to obtain everything Germany was able to pay by any action on the part of the president of the United States.

"It would be unfair to that great country," Mr. Bonar Law said, "to suggest that our action had thus been influenced."

A CHILD HATES OIL, CALOMEL, PILLS FOR LIVER AND BOWELS

Give "California Syrup of Figs" if cross, sick, peevish, constipated.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them; how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them. If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a tea-spoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

For Free Homesteads

Western M. P.'s are Against Abandoning of Policy Now

Ottawa. — Government supporters from the provinces west of the great lakes were in caucus with Hon. Arthur Meighen, minister of the interior, in regard to the question of western homesteads and the grazing leases. At a caucus held a week ago, the suggestion was made that the government should abandon the policy of granting free homesteads in western Canada. There was great diversity of opinion in regard to this proposal. At a recent gathering, it was apparent that the consensus of opinion was adverse to a change in what has been the government policy for many years past.

There was considerable discussion as to the proper policy to be adopted in respect of grazing land and the suggestion was made that in the future leases should be for a ten year period with the privilege given to the party holding a lease to drop it at the end of three years after giving notice. It was proposed that the rental of leased land should be increased from two to five, or seven cents per acre.

LISTEN TO THIS!
SAYS CORNS LIFT
RIGHT OUT NOW

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn, the scrofulous is relieved and soon the entire corn root and all, lifts out with the fingers.

It is a sticky ether compound which dries the moment it is applied and simply shrivels the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce of freezezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You are further warned that cutting at a corn is a suicidal habit.

HAD WEAK and FAINTING SPELLS

Those feelings of faintness, those weak, "all gone" sinking sensations, which come over some people from time to time, are warnings that must not go unnoticed.

They mean an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered nervous system.

When the system is in this condition there is no time for delay. One fainting spell may be recovered from—will the next? One dizzy spell may pass off, but the next may be more serious.

Those who are wise will start taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills before their case becomes deep rooted and perhaps hopeless.

They will act directly on the disordered heart and weakened nervous system and restore them to full strength and vigor.

Miss Mary McCoy, Algoma Mills, Ont., writes:—"I was awfully troubled with fainting and weak spells, and I could never get any doctor's medicines to help me. One day a friend of mine was at the house when I took one of those spells, and she got me a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. That was six years ago, and from that day to this I have never had any of those spells. I would not be without your pills for any money, and can highly recommend them to any one."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50¢ a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The Yellow Peril

Captain Martin Smith Says Japanese Will Not Tolerate Discrimination

Ottawa. — "We have finished the fight over yonder, but this has not by any means settled the world problem," asserted Captain Martin Smith of Vancouver, who is stopping in Ottawa for a few days on his way home. "Canada has to face, as she never has before, the yellow peril," he continued. "The Japanese is a high spirited man and if discriminated against, he feels slighted."

Captain Smith held out fears that the world may yet be in the throes of a death struggle when the white and yellow races, comprising the Japanese, Chinese and possibly other oriental nations, clash for world supremacy.

Stuttgart, Germany. — The government has proclaimed a state of siege in the city of Stuttgart, and its environs. All shops, theatres and public places must close from eight in the evening until 9 o'clock in the morning and all street traffic is forbidden after 9 o'clock at night. The counter strike which was called as a protest against the general walk out of workmen has been joined by tradesmen, merchants, manufacturers, state and municipal officials, doctors, and chemists. No local papers are issued and postal and tram car services have been suspended.

Bolsheviki Propaganda

Spreads in Germany

London. — Describing the outlook in Germany, the Berlin correspondent of the Mail says the crisis which is rapidly approaching seems certain to be graver than either the January or March outbreaks.

"One of the storm centres is Bavaria, especially Munich," he writes. "The situation in southern Germany has completely changed during the last three weeks. Thousands of people, including many women, attend mass meetings at which unadulterated Bolshevism is advocated and demands are made for the abolition of parliament. A political section has arisen that is even stronger than the Spartacists. The members of this party call themselves syndicalists and are, apparently, led or inspired by terrorists who escaped from Dusseldorf when government troops occupied that city after the last uprising."

"Bolshevism is working in Germany by propaganda as it did in Hungary and is wrecking and removing opportunities for work."

Allies Raising Blockade

Paris. — It has been decided to raise the blockade of Poland, Estonia, German Austria, Turkey, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, and the territories occupied by Rumania and Serbia. With respect to German Austria, prohibition is maintained against trade in a few articles, chiefly of a military nature.

The international trade commission sitting at Vienna will exercise supervision to prevent re-exportation to Germany.

Allied Airmen Mobbed

Cairo. — Communication with As-suit, reported in recent dispatches as isolated by the revolutionists, has been established by flying boat. The occupants were compelled to make a false landing and were surrounded by a mob having recourse to their revolvers, but were eventually overpowered. They fought their way out however, and took refuge in a friendly sheik's house, subsequently reaching the railway, boarded a goods train and escaped.

A Mother's Tribute

THIS letter from Mrs. Roberts gives such a fine idea of the value of Dr. Chase's medicines for use in the home that we shall publish it without further comment.

Mrs. Everett Roberts, 44 Endicott Ave., Halifax, N.S., writes:

"I feel it a pleasure as well as my duty to recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Ointment. After the shock of the Halifax explosion my system was all run down, and I was so weak that I could not walk. Night after night I lay awake unable to sleep. Nothing did me any good until one of my neighbors recommended Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. After a treatment of this medicine I can positively say that my health and strength have been restored, and I can now sleep well and do my work as well as ever."

"I used Dr. Chase's Ointment for my baby, who had ringworms all over his face. I tried almost everything I knew of without success until I used Dr. Chase's Ointment. This cured him in a short time. I would not be without either of these medicines in the house, and trust this may induce others to give them a trial and be convinced of their merits."

You can scarcely ask for a stronger guarantee of the value of a medicine than the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., on the box. This is for your protection against imitations and substitutes. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Effect of the Armistice on Hoarded Money

There is reason to think that hoarding practised a great deal more during the war than is generally believed. With peace assured, the hoarded money is now beginning to appear, and it is to be hoped that quite a lot of it may go to buy War Savings Stamps.

In the United States it is estimated that $1,500,000,000 were hoarded by foreigners during the war period. Banking authorities say that since the signing of the Armistice, this hoarded money has come out to a surprising extent and this opinion is confirmed by the savings bank deposits. In New York State this class of deposits increase by $39,400,000 during the period from December 28, 1918 to January 12th, 1919.

Undoubtedly the cessation of hostilities has had a similar effect on hoarded money in Canada, for it is well known that hundreds of people of foreign birth drew money out of the bank and either carried it on their person or hid it. The question is how much of this money will go into War Savings Stamps? The whole country is vitally interested in seeing that a large portion of it is thus invested, while it is to the interest of the person holding such money to put it to this use.

NOTICE—All interested in having blacksmith work done, please bring it in early in the week, and we will do our best, as we have always tried to do in the past, to have it all attended to by noon on Saturday.—D. M. SINCLAIR, sec.-treas. Didsbury Local. 2c15

N. Paton has completed two large deals in farm lands within the last few days. Rush Bros. of Lethbridge have bought the north half of section 36, known as the Little farm; and Mr. J. A. Eslar of Moosejaw has secured the 800 acres formerly owned and worked by Birchall & O'Donnell, about twelve miles west of the town.

Norman Clarke and Roy McNaughton took in the Edmonton live stock shows last week. They report the show and sale as excellent, over 400 bulls being sold. They took up the syndicate stallion "Competitor," and sold him at a good price. Mr. Clarke bought a splendid three-year-old Clyde stallion, Strome Rob Roy, a grandson of the famous Baron of Bucklevie, which has the makings of a ton horse. The addition of this splendid animal to Didsbury's horse industry should still further improve the splendid stock that this district possesses.
